Six tips for dental care

For pet parents:

- 1. Conduct regular brushing: Brush at least several times a week using a pet-specific toothbrush and toothpaste.
- 2. Use dental health products: Brushing isn't always accepted by pets, but other dental health tools may be. Wipes can help clean your pet's teeth and freshen their breath. Veterinary-approved water additives can help reduce plaque and bacteria.
- 3. Introduce dental chews/toys: These can help reduce plaque and tartar buildup. Ensure items are safe and appropriate for their size and chewing habits.

For veterinary teams:

- 1. Reinforce client education: Talk to pet parents on the importance of dental health and proper home care techniques. Share how poor oral health can affect overall health, and share easy, efficient, and effective ways to support the pet's dental hygiene.
- 2. Offer demonstrations: Show pet parents how to brush their pet's teeth and use dental care products.
- 3. Provide regular dental screenings: Incorporate dental examinations into routine check-ups to catch issues early. Share with clients how to spot problems at home.
